STATEMENTS OF REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

80 LONDON ROAD WEST

This two and one-half-storey red-brick house is a unique example of the architecture of the 1890 period and is an important element in the streetscape of London Road from numbers 76 to 88. Many notable features remain intact including the decorative slate roof incorporating a variety of shapes, the large wooden brackets, the leaded glass windows and the original burled oak woodwork inside.

Built in 1893 for John G. Sully, a local businessman and politician, owners have also included Henry C. Scholfield, Manager of the Dominion Bank in Guelph, who represented Wellington South in the Provincial Legislative Assembly from 1911 to 1914, as well as insurance agent George Powell Hamilton and the Holman family. Andy and Melanie McLennan are responsible for restoring many of the original interior and exterior details of the house in the late 1980's.

The designation includes the slate roof and the shape of the roof, slate gables, wooden brackets and curved wooden soffits of the original house, together with the east, north and west facades and the present porch, excluding the asphalt shingle skirt. The designation does not include the later additions and the south facade. Inside, the burled oak staircase, stair railing and newel post, and the 6 original leaded glass windows are included in the designation.

MASSEY HALL

University of Guelph

This unique combination of architectural styles in a substantial brick building fronts on the campus green of the University of Guelph. The building was designed by architect G. M. Miller of Toronto, begun in 1901 and opened in 1903. It is of red pressed brick with trim and foundation of Credit Valley Brownstone and was constructed to house a library with stacks for 75,000 volumes, reading and meeting rooms, and offices. A gift from the trustees of the Hart A. Massey Estate, W. E. Massey, Chester Daniel Massey and Lillian Massey-Treble, this was the first such donation from a private source to the Province of Ontario. The designation applies to the entire exterior of the building.
